

SECTION 1 — Expectant Mothers

Part 0 — Your Background & Daily Life

- QD1. Could you tell me a bit about yourself, including your age and what your typical day looks like regarding work or home responsibilities?
- QD2. Describe your current living situation—who do you live with, and how involved are they in your daily care?
- QD3. How comfortable are you using smartphones and AI tools (like ChatGPT or Gemini) in your daily life?
- QD4. Have you ever had to move or stay in a different location specifically to be closer to a better hospital or clinic for this pregnancy?

Part 1 — Eligibility & Perspective

- Q1. Is this your first pregnancy? If so, how does the "unknown" of this experience make you feel compared to what you expected?
- Q2. For those who have been pregnant before: How has your previous experience changed the way you follow doctor's orders this time?

Part 2 — Navigating Health Information

- Q3. When you get a medical report (like a sonography) and see words you don't understand, what is the very first thing you do?
- Q4. How do you feel when you read medical information in English versus your regional language?
- Q5. Walk me through a time you used an AI tool or Google to understand your pregnancy. What did you ask, and did you trust the answer more than your family's advice?
- Q6. If you could talk to an app in your own language and have it explain medical terms simply, how would that change your pregnancy experience?

Part 3 — Tracking and "The Rules"

- Q7. How are you currently keeping track of your baby's growth, and what specific information (like diet or weight) are you most looking for?
- Q8. What is your understanding of the "standard" schedule for doctor visits and tests? Do you feel you have a clear roadmap, or do you just wait for the doctor to tell you what's next?
- Q9. Have you heard of government schemes like PMMVY or JSY? If you haven't used them, what has stopped you?

Part 4 — The Reality of Your Body

- Q10. Have you experienced physical symptoms (like severe nausea, heat, or breathlessness) that were different from what people told you to expect?
- Q11. Describe a time you felt physical pain or discomfort but felt it was dismissed by others as "just part of being pregnant."
- Q12. Has the fear of "something being wrong" ever made you hesitate to call a doctor, or conversely, made you go to the hospital immediately?

Part 5 — Emotional Weight & Support

- Q13. Who is the one person you can talk to about your "ugly" feelings—the anger, the mood swings, or the fear—without being judged?
- Q14. When the house is quiet, what are the biggest worries that keep you awake at night?

- Q15. What would make an online community of mothers feel "safe" to you? Would you prefer talking to people in your own city, or staying anonymous?

SECTION 2 — Postpartum Mothers (Within 12 Months)

Part 6 — Reflecting on the Journey

- Q16. Looking back at your delivery, what was one thing you wish someone had told you about the physical recovery (like C-section pain or breastfeeding) before it happened?
- Q17. During labor, did you ever feel like you wanted to "rush" the process or do something the doctors told you not to do?
- Q18. Did you ever find yourself caught between your doctor's clinical advice and the traditional wisdom (or "folklore") of elders in your family? How did you choose who to listen to?

Part 7 — The Hospital Experience

- Q19. What was the most frustrating part of your hospital visits? (e.g., waiting times, lack of explanation, or the environment).
- Q20. If you had a high-risk pregnancy (like twins or BP issues), do you feel the medical system was prepared to handle your specific needs?

Part 8 — Mental Health and Moving Forward

- Q21. After the baby arrived, did you feel you had enough support for your own health, or was all the focus on the baby?
- Q22. Describe your experience with "postpartum blues" or mood swings. Did you feel there was a safe space for you to seek professional mental health help if you needed it?
